

Supplementary Figure S1: Results of a simulation illustrating our method applied to truly random substitutions. Unlike the plots in fig. 1, this plot is flat, ie divergence values next to windows with a 16 score are not different from those next to windows with 10 scores. This shows that our method is not biased. (see Methods for details of the simulation).